Town of Perth Cautiously Welcomes Visitors

As our region of Ontario enters "Phase 2" of the COVID-19 recovery plan, the Town of Perth cautiously welcomes people to Perth again. Many of our businesses and restaurants are operating again and ensuring they can provide service in ways that respect health guidelines set out by the province and the local Health Unit.

When coming to shop, dine and explore Perth, we ask that people ensure they continue to observe social distancing recommendations and other guidelines that are in place at areas they visit. These precautions will help keep visitors and residents safe, while they begin using services again.

Mayor John Fenik emphasizes, "Our businesses are the lifeblood of our community and we are excited to invite people back to Perth, however there are still social guidelines to follow. Please respect the advice of our health officials and cautiously begin to enjoy life again."
